the Ralston Oil Company RUINS ONE OF THE BEST FIELDS.

Enormous Dividends Finally Cut Down to Nothing at All.

A FUNNY INCIDENT AT A PIT-HOLE FIRE

The Balston Oil Company, which has had a somewhat eventful history, has deeided to sell its machinery and all other moveable effects in the vicinity of Tidioute, an organization meeting was called, on May 17, 1865. The meeting was held in the office of C. W. Robb, Esq., on June 17, 1865, and the company formed. The incorporators were David Ralston, of Indiana; his brother John, of the same county; J. G. McQuaid, of the same county, but later of Philadelphis and John F. and William H. Kirkpatrick, of this city. They purchased 230 acres of ground on Dennis run, near Tidioute, with the royalty of 230 more, from W. W. Wallace once famous for his marble works in this city. The company for years rolled in wealth from its investment, as high as 58 per cent annual dividend once being paid.

flush, however, and the $700 or $800 now in the treasury will be left there for instant

In this connection an interesting question arises, and that is, what has become of the third sand oil in that and contiguous fields? It was not pumped out before the territory petered out, and where did it go? It was driven out of the third sand by the pressure of the water, for oil and water will not mix. come to the surface in those abandoned holes. Has it been forced out by the third sand and absorbed by other strata, or has it been driven to some section of the same and made follow the dip, and will deeper boring in some other field fetch it? The idea that petroleum would never be found in paying quantities below 2,000 feet has been exploded. The Ralston company had a man put down a well in the territory lately, but he found no oil. Then an attempt was made to clean out an old well and pump the water out of it, so as to give the oil a chance to come forward, but though the surface water was eased off and the pump run day and night for six months, there seemed to be as much water as ever, showing conclusively that the third sand had been filled with it

The wells in the Tidioute territory were quite gaseous in 1865 and some of them flowed by its pressure, but now there is no gas in the third sand there. It seems to have escaped into the atmosphere while the petroleum was driven somewhere else. Around Pit Hole they still get some oil, but with claims against the steamer Mayflower ag-there doesn't seem to be any reason to doubt gregating $2,145 29. Around Pit Hole they still get some oil, but that many million barrels were lost that might have been saved had the law requiring wells to be plugged before abandon ment, been in force previous to 1865. In those days nearly all the good wells were eventually destroyed by flooding. When a big one was atruck there was a rush to get leases, and wells were bored in the vicinity by the hundred. Most of them were failures, and after being tested from 10 to 30 days the casing was drawn and the water let into the third sand. Frequently a big well would cease to flow almost as soon as an unproductive one was bored near it. Then the pump would be set to work, and it would produce 10 to 50 barrels a day for a time and finally fail altogether. The oil was supposed to be exhausted, but the most plausible conjecture is that it was driven away by the superior weight of the water rom abandoned wells.

PETROLEUM IN THE WELL. An incident in the short and fitful life of Pit Hole City would tend to show that the petroleum might have been absorbed by the earth in the vicinity. There was a big fire one night, and in a water well less than 50 feet in depth, the firemen introduced a hose and sucked up the water to throw on the burning buildings. Soon it was noticed that the flow increased the flames, and ex-amination showed that the firemen were pumping pure petroleum on the burning building. In the excitement of the discovery speculators lost interest in the fire, and the owner of the well, a widow, who and the owner of the well, a widow, who had established a laundry, was besieged by an excited crowd, who bid against each other for possession of her well until they got high up in the thousands, and she sold her establishment and retired, to live on the interest of her money, losing all interest in the question of Chinese cheap labor. The buyers never realized anything substantial on their investment.

The water well was high up on the hill and it was well known that the oil was at least 800 feet above its habitat. A few weeks subsequently it was the settled local opinion that the oil had been forced up through the earth by flooding the third

CHICAGO POLITICS.

CHICAGO, March 21 .- Polities has taken a rather unusual turn in this city. A heated campaign which is to end in April in the election of city officers is on. The two assaults on Attorney Frank Collier have already been noticed in these dispatches. Last night while coming from a political meeting, Alderman Webber and a friend were assaulted and roughly handled by two men who pounced upon them from a Another case was that of W. P. Rend who vesterday declined the Labor party nomination for City Treasurer. Last night as his son, who resembles him very much, stepped outside of his tather's house, a bot-tle of strong sulphuric acid was thrown at his head, barely missing him. Mr. Rend believes that the missile was intended for his place and demolished it. He was thrown with stunning force among the debris, and had a miraculous escape. Three families at the same time hardly succeeded in making their escape through the rear doors when their houses succumbed to the

REFUSED A MARRIAGE LICENSE.

How the Present Law Operates in Certain Cases-New Jersey May Prove a Kind Haven for a Youthful Runaway Couple. A youthful and good-looking couple entered the marriage license office yesterday afternoon to procure a license. They were accompanied by a well-dressed and middleaged man, who said he was the father of the young man. As soon as their desire was the very youthful appearance of the couple, asked them their ages. The young man gave his age as 19 and the girl as 16 years. They were asked if they had the consent of the girl's parents or guardian to her marriage, but replied that they had not. Upon being informed that a license could not be issued unless such consent was granted, the father of the prospective groom said the match was a run-away one. The court adjourned at noon to enable Judge Magee to attend the funeral of his relative, Mrs. slagee, the mother of C. L. Magee.

A SENSATION CAUSED

By the Singular Action of the Jury in an Election Trink SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. WHEELING, March 21 .- There was a remarkable occurrence in the United States Court to-day, which shows the futility of any further attempts of the Government to secure convictions of Republicans in the election cases, at least with the present made known Captain Heiber, who noticed panel. William M, Eyers, alleged to be panel. William M. Eyers, alleged to be a minor, was on trial, and at 6:30 o'clock this evening the jury came into court and said there was no possible chance of an agreement being reached. The Court said it would send them back, when Foreman O'Brien said some of the jury was willing to convict if they could be assured in advance what the punishment would be.

The Court sharply reproved the jury tor. The Court sharply reproved the jury top this attempt to compromise the case, whereupon the jury retired and in five minutes returned with a verdict of not guilty. The sensation was tremendous, and the verdict is the talk of the town to-night. It is not impossible that no more cases will be tried impossible that no more cases will be tried by the District Attorney, although 70 in-dictments are in his hands.

HUNTING FOR THE NEEDLE. Searching for Tascott in the California

MRS. DR. CROSSLEY, of the Consulting Physicians of the Catarrh and Dyspepsia Institute

Mr. James Critchlow, residing on Carnegie street, this city, has for 15 years undergone terrible suffering from his stomach. At times it would give him such pain that he could only live on lime water and milk. He had great distress and bloating after eating, with belching of gas. His liver also gave him much pain, and his tongue had a yellow coating. He had a pressure and pain over the eyes. He lost all ambition and kept getting worse until he was unable to do any work. One doctor said he had cancer of the stomach. After trying Il doctors all to no purpose, he began treatment with the physicians of the Catarrh and Dyspepsia Institute, and although 67 years old, he new works every day and feels well and hearty. He says: "That I am cured of the above conditions I hereby sign my name. sign my name. "James Critchlow."
